REPORT OF THE BOARD

To the Commissioner of Education:

In accordance with the provisions of Section 14 of Chapter 78 of the General Laws, the Board of Free Public Library Commissioners herewith presents its forty-ninth annual report, covering the work of the Division of Public Libraries for the year ending November 30, 1938.

On December 1, 1937, His Excellency, Governor Charles F. Hurley, reappointed Mr. William T. O'Rourke a member of the Board of Free Public Library Commissioners for a period of five years. On November 9, 1938, he reappointed Mr. Dennis A. Dooley a member of the Board for a period of five years and designated him as chairman.

This report contains a summary of the administration activities of the Division and a statistical tabulation of the public libraries of the state.

Four small towns have been taken over by the Metropolitan Water Supply Commission and their areas have become absorbed into the Quabbin Water Basin. This has resulted in the closing of four libraries in this district, Dana, North Dana, Enfield, and Greenwich. The total number of free public libraries is now 406, serving the 351 cities and towns of the Commonwealth.

Although Massachusetts is fortunate in having library service for every city and town the inadequate incomes in the small towns indicate the need of a larger unit for more efficient service. This problem has been a consideration of the Board of Library Commissioners for many years. In April 1936 they placed upon their records a proposal to demonstrate regional service for a rural area in the western part of the state, with the hope that this plan, or a similar experiment, might be possible when funds became available. Such a demonstration would seem to be the most effective way of proving the need of unified library facilities to further develop book service in the rural towns.

A summary of the need of extension service through regional centers, and an outline of the experiments that have been initiated by the Board, is contained in the 1936 report.

This year the Board has under consideration a plan for state-wide regional service based on the former plan. It is hoped that funds may be available in the near future to carry out this project for coordinating library service. The results desired are that more effectual library service through the development of regional units will bring to each inhabitant of the state greater opportunities for self-education, and cultural and leisure hour reading through the medium of the best book service obtainable.

Summary of Library Service from the Division:

183 libraries—175 public, 7 school and 1 institution were visited. (See Column A in the Appendix for a list of libraries thus aided.)

93 libraries in the small towns were given children's and reference books to aid in work with the schools. (See Column B in the Appendix.)

24,522 volumes from the Division's lending collection were lent to 340 libraries, including 16 institutions; 157 non-fiction collections to 93 libraries; 65 collections from the State Certificate collection sent to 15 libraries and 13 rural schools.

11 addresses were made by the Library Adviser before library clubs, women's clubs, library training classes, etc.

17 library meetings were attended by the staff.

Statistics of the lending library may present more tangible evidences of the service rendered by the Division than those of the work in the field, but the latter cannot be measured in figures. The visits in the field disclose the needs of the libraries and the technical advice given on all matters of library administration, conferences with Boards of Trustees, Superintendents of Schools, teachers, and citizen groups in behalf of library interests bring tangible results. No record is kept of the advice given through correspondence and office interviews. This does, however, constitute an important part of the service. Such advice covers all phases of library administration. Frequent requests are for advice on book-selection, comparative statistics, computing value of books for insurance purposes, publicity suggestions, revising by-laws, proportioning the book budget, etc.

Column A, B, C, in the Appendix show the service given to the various towns through advisory visits and other field work, gifts and loans of books.

FIELD WORK

Public Libraries.—The staff of library advisers has made 266 visits in addition to office duties. Many of these visits have been in response to special requests for definite help. Eleven trustees' meetings have been attended to advise on special problems; 4 surveys of libraries have been made with recommendations for improving service; advice on new buildings, or the remodeling of old, has been given to 10 towns; estimates on revising the catalog to 10 towns; inspection of the collection has been made in 28 libraries, with recommendations for disposition of books outmoded and of no permanent value. The staff has given 11 addresses, including talks to the students at the Simmons College Rural Problems Seminar on the facilities for reading in the rural towns; to the students at Emmanuel College on training and opportunities in library work; to the Springfield Training Class, and the Ipswich Friends of the Library group. In addition the staff has participated in the Adult Education Institute held at Simmons College and attended 12 library meetings.

The Secretary of the Metropolitan Water Supply Commission requested the advice of the Library Adviser in disposing of the books in the Dana and North Dana libraries since the town was to be absorbed in the Quabbin Basin. These 6,000 volumes were deposited in the Enfield Town Hall and sorted for delivery to 25 small libraries in the western part of the state. These were selected with the needs of each library in mind.

The Enfield trustees also wished advice in disposing of their books. These were likewise distributed to small libraries. The remainder were deposited in the Belcher-town High School since the time limit for occupying the Town Hall made it necessary to move them. Part of these have been selected for the High School and the remainder will be used as a nucleus for future needs, or for distribution. The trustees at Greenwich voted to give their books to the New Salem library. The Prescott books went to Pelham several years ago so now all the books in the Quabbin Basin area are disposed of.

Orange, having lost its entire children's collection in the flood of 1936, had special consideration in the distribution of children's books. These books proved a great help as the library again lost much of its children's collection in the recent flood. Fortunately none of the books from Dana were damaged, and with the help from the Division the reference collection, which also suffered a heavy loss, is being built up.

Schools and Institutions.—Seven school libraries and one institution library have been visited. Sixteen institutions borrowed 1,074 volumes (677 of these were foreign books lent to 10 institutions). The State Certificate Reading continues to interest the children. This year 149 towns have been using the list and 28,740 certificates were distributed from this Division. A supplement to the 1936 list is in preparation.

Library Institute.—The 21st annual Institute for librarians in small towns was held at the Hyannis State Teachers College, May 2-6. Registrations numbered 73, representing 51 libraries. Twenty-three were guests of the Division. The reference course of four lectures with practice work, and four lectures in budgeting the book appropriation were held in the mornings. The afternoon sessions included talks on publicity, picture collections, state-wide library service, measuring our library service, a working philosophy for libraries, extension of small libraries, Massachusetts vs. Southern libraries, recent children's and non-fiction books.

The trustees of the Hyannis Public Library and the librarian, Mrs. Hinckley, welcomed the guests the first evening with their usual "open house" hospitality, which proved a real "get-together" party. Mrs. Hinckley again entertained at her home one afternoon with a delightful tea. Visits to a number of neighboring libraries were made one afternoon. The trustees and librarians greeted the guests and they were given an opportunity to see some of the most attractive of the Cape libraries. This interesting trip ended with a delicious tea at the Sturgis Library, Barnstable. An illustrated lecture on Scandinavia was given one evening by Miss Mary G. Flint, Home Demonstration Agent for Barnstable County. Mr. O'Rourke's talk on publicity has been multigraphed and distributed to libraries.

University Extension Courses.—In cooperation with the Division of University Extension a course in cataloging was given by Mrs. Eleanor G. Brackett, Instructor at Simmons College, at Sever Hall, Cambridge. This course started January 13, with the choice of eight lectures without credit, or sixteen with credit. The attendance was 70, of which 34 took the course for credit. A course in Library Research which started November 17, at Sever Hall, Cambridge, with an enrollment of 34, was given by Mr. William T. O'Rourke, Librarian of the Brockton Public Library and a member of the State Board of Free Public Library Commissioners.

WPA and PWA Projects.—The book mending project has been continued with from five to ten workers. Aid has been given to 28 libraries. The number of volumes repaired, including 825 volumes of the Division's collection, was 3,240.

A WPA project for remodeling the interior of the Assonet library was outlined by the Library Adviser in a meeting with the Board of Trustees and the local WPA administrator. This will enlarge the book capacity and make possible an attractive children's room. A similar conference was held at Tewksbury to consider the possibility of asking for PWA funds toward a new library building. At Westport aid was given in planning for a library room in a community building under consideration with PWA funds. At Hamilton a plan for revising the catalog was outlined with the trustees and the WPA administrator. This project has been carried on for nine months with a staff of five. A very good piece of work has been done; the catalog in the main library revised, rearranged, and a duplicate catalog made for the branch. An inventory has been made at the main library and at the branch. The Library Adviser has made occasional visits to supervise the work.

Many libraries continue to have local WPA projects and the National Youth Administration young people are giving service for a limited number of hours each week.

LENDING LIBRARY

The lending library of non-fiction was inaugurated in 1924 to supplement the books the Division was unable to borrow through inter-library loans. The increased demands upon the larger libraries made it impossible for them to meet the requests.

The general collection now contains 7,000 volumes and the foreign collection 6,000 volumes. There has been a steady increase in the circulation. The total number of books issued this year was 24,522 volumes, an increase of 2,872 over last year. These were lent to 340 libraries, including 16 institutions. From the general collection 13,395 volumes were lent, an increase of 1,610 over last year. To fill requests 887 volumes were purchased and 1,152 volumes borrowed from other libraries. In past years books on education have lead in circulation. This year useful arts came first, but education followed closely, then history and travel. For a three-month period 157 collections were sent to 93 libraries, an increase of 34 collections and 24 libraries to which the collections have been sent. It is of interest to note that several collections of 25 volumes sent to small libraries reported a circulation of 100. One library showed a circulation of 131 on this small collection, another collection of 17 volumes had a circulation of 89. These figures prove the value of such collections in stimulating the reading of non-fiction in the small towns.

The following excerpts from a few letters illustrate the nature of the requests received: "Have you any book on stocks which you could lend to us? The question our borrower wants to answer is this, 'If a person buys stocks, then the price goes down can he hold them and sell later if the price goes up again, or will he have to pay more in order to hold them?"

"We have been asked for a picture of the Lincoln gargoyle. Have come to the end of our resources. It was used in Lincoln, England, in early history, about 1,100, as a gargoyle and a door knocker. It is a monkey with one leg drawn up across the body and long pointed ears on its head. I am anxious to answer this request. It is for a Men's Club, to be used in their wood carving work. Any effort you make for us will be greatly appreciated."

"What is the swiftest bird of flight? Can you tell me where I can find the answer? I will appreciate any help you will give me on this."

A request from a grocery clerk: "I am working on the grocery counter in a market. Will you please send me titles of a few books which you believe would be instructive to me. I should like something describing grocery products, their contents and display. Then I shall notify the librarian. Thank you in advance."

"One of my borrowers has been operated on for cataracts and her eyesight is very poor. She has requested me to find her poetry to read. The book must be light weight, large print, on white paper. Are there books gotten up for that particular need? If so will you send me some. Thank you."

One of my patrons wishes information on determining the age of three old, weight-driven shelf clocks. "If there is available any book covering in detail the early history of clock making in Connecticut he will be grateful for any assistance you can give him in regard to it."

"My borrower wishes a book on Jersey cows suitable for high school boys."

A request from a schoolboy in a New Jersey town: "Our class is interested in the Colonial settlers. Will you please give us some information? We would greatly appreciate it. We would like to know what kind of soil the Colonial settlers had, what they grew, what kind of clothes the colonists wore and what kind of schools and books they had. Please send us a sample of the soil found around Boston by the Colonial settlers."

"The young man for whom books on engines had been borrowed was able to pass his examination this autumn and is more than grateful for the help given him."

From the State Certificate Reading collection 65 collections were lent to 15 libraries and 13 rural schools. This is a decrease of 48 collections and a decrease in the number of libraries and schools receiving collections. This is due, undoubtedly, to the fact that few visits have been made to schools and school libraries because of a limited staff.

The lending collection for the foreign-born contains 6,000 volumes in 32 languages. The circulation for this year has been 11,127 volumes in 23 languages to 154 libraries, including 10 institutions. This is an increase of 1,562 volumes over last year and an increase of 22 libraries using the collection. Polish, Italian, and French lead in requests. Records from various libraries show that the Polish books have the largest circulation. One library reported over 200 circulation on 50 Polish books sent in a collection; another a circulation of 100 on 20 books. An inter-library loan exchange of Lithuanian and Polish books has been arranged with the Jones Library, Amherst. Several libraries have taken advantage of this. Reports from libraries show much appreciation from the foreign-born. One librarian writes that those borrowing the French and Italian books especially express their pleasure in being able to obtain these books.

There are frequent requests for a catalog of the books in the lending library. In 1928, when the collection was small, a catalog was printed and distributed to all librarians, and superintendents of schools. This is now out of print. In 1929 a catalog of the foreign collection was printed; this is still available. In 1934 a catalog of books on education was printed. This is out of print. Since that time multi-graphed lists on special subjects have been distributed, many of which are still available. These subjects included books on handicraft, hobbies, music, recreations, science, pageants, poetry, social service, stamp collecting, etc. This year a catalog and eight short lists of 1937 and 1938 accessions have been printed and distributed. These lists are: Have a hobby, Books worth re-reading, These parlous times, Lives worth re-living, Old traveling companions, Modern advice, I hear America singing, Our problems. Funds are not available for printing a complete catalog. Requests for special books and books on special subjects not in the Division's collection are met as far as possible by purchase or through inter-library loans.

The Board extends to the libraries giving the privilege of the inter-library loan their appreciation for the generous service so willingly given. To fill special requests 832 volumes have been borrowed from the following libraries: Boston College, Boston Medical, Boston Public, Brookline, Cambridge, Congregational Library, Gardner, Harvard University Library, Massachusetts Horticultural Society, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Newton, Somerville, Watertown, Wellesley, Worcester, and the various state departments. Valuable research information has been obtained also from these departments.

PUBLIC LIBRARIES IN 1938

Gifts.—Library gifts and bequests reported total $545,547.65. There were eight bequests of $10,000 or more. Boxford received a homestead for a library and about $20,000 residue from the Cummings estate; Boylston $10,000 by will of Salome E. White; Edgartown $52,000 from the estate of Mrs. Florence S. Thayer; Great Barrington $18,000 by will of Edward E. Smith; Milton $25,000 by will of Nathaniel T. Kidder; Southbridge $100,000 from the estate of Grace M. Edwards; Leominster by will of Henrietta M. Gates will receive $5,000, in trust, the income for the benefit of the library in addition to the annual appropriation and not to be the cause of any reduction therein; Hyannis received $9,600 from the estate of W. A. Baldwin; Sheffield $8,000 from Mrs. Sarah M. Bushnell; Gill received a house and lot for library purposes in Riverside from Mrs. Harris.

Buildings.—The new Bradford Branch of the Haverhill Public Library was opened in February. The Bradford Library Association contributed the site and the old building which was remodeled with city and PWA contributions. The South Grafton Branch was built at a cost of $17,000 from the Merriam fund.

The following buildings are under construction: The Newtonville Branch costing $110,000. The site was provided by the Newtonville Library Association, which raised by subscription $29,159.20 (reduced by $2,862.19 for campaign expenses) plus a city appropriation of $6,000, plus $2,684.25 for back taxes. For the building the city appropriated $60,500; the PWA $49,500. The Hyannis Public Library was made possible by money left in 1915 by Edward L. Eagleston which has accumulated to $19,000. The attractive Cape cottage now housing the library will be used as an annex. The East Cambridge Branch is estimated to cost $50,000, part of which will be provided by PWA funds. The West Newbury Public Library is erected on a site given by the Misses Emery. G.A.R. trust funds became available for the building which will cost $12,845.

Additions to Library Buildings.—The following additions are completed: Dalton, costing $30,000 from the Z. Marshall Crane estate; Lawrence, a PWA project. The following are under construction: Quincy, costing $200,000, $82,000 from the Albert Crane estate and 45% from PWA funds; Somerset addition made possible by $15,000 from the D. Borden Davis estate. This consists of a new reading room, a new heating plant, an enlarged stackroom, and air conditioning.

Friends of the Library.—One hundred friends of the Berkshire Athenaeum have formed a Friends of the Library Group. The Mayor gave a rousing "bon voyage" over the air and he, the president and the librarian, gave a broadcast in the evening. The membership has increased to 300. Their aim is "to bring together library patrons for the purpose of informing them of the services and needs of the library and through them informing the community." A program "to aid the library in more adequately fulfilling its purposes" has been prepared. A survey of the needs of the library has been presented to the trustees to aid in securing an additional appropriation.

The second birthday party of the Ipswich Friends of the Library was held in November. The president and chairman of the executive board outlined the achievements of the past two years. Over $800 has been raised, 1,400 volumes added to the library, and through their efforts $1,000 added to the appropriation. The librarian expressed her gratitude for the interest shown. The circulation has increased 18%. The Library Adviser of the State Division of Public Libraries told of the good work being done by other groups. The architect who drew up the preliminary plans for the possible extension of the library showed the plans which would give a wing for children and a reference room. Mr. David McCord read from his poems. A delightful tea with a "birthday cake" followed. The group now has 200 members and is planning a drive early in 1939. Each member contributes $1.

A group has been formed at Kingston and meetings held to discuss ways in which they may be helpful to the library. A membership drive is planned.

The Lee Library Association has no organized group but sent out letters to the townspeople outlining their needs and appealing for funds. This appeal came at an unfortunate time when the town was stricken by the hurricane. The sum of $489 was received and added to the endowment fund.

Bookmobiles.—Greenfield's bookmobile year of service to outlying districts has brought in an estimated 125 new patrons. The new borrowers are about two-thirds adults and one-third children. The circulation has been 10,031 volumes. Webster has started such service. An interested woman is giving her time and her car one day every other week and the librarian accompanies her.
